School Rules

Thank you for listening carefully this week whilst Tutors discuss our School rules with you. These are designed to make your daily experiences at Trinity positive ones.

One or two additional reminders/requests to help us in the week ahead;

Sweaters: Should be worn at all times on corridors. They may be removed with permission of staff in lessons.

Coats: Must not be worn inside the building. We must be able to see your uniform, which helps us to identify you as a Trinity Student.

Corridors: Please work hard to always walk on the left, so that we can all move around the building more safely. Corridors are not a place for food and drinks. Please keep these items in bags until you are in a dining facility or outside.

Bins: Are readily available and should be used for all litter.

Many thanks for working hard with these. This will ensure that you never receive a Det X from duty staff including the Midday Supervisors team. Mr Charnock

Det X

Should you be unfortunate enough to receive a Det X, please remember that the venue is now Margaret Sewell Hall.
Mr Charnock

... are you ready for a challenge?

Bronze Award: Completing the Award

Please make sure you have finalised each of your activities (skills, physical and volunteering) and submitted your assessor reports on EDofE before the end of September in order to receive your Award at the celebration evening in October.

Please could you also make sure that you have input your group's expedition aim in the expedition section on EDofE. This is all you have to do for this section.

...see Mr Cookson for further details

A THRILLING JOURNEY TO THE DARKSIDE OF EVEREST

Ryan is on a gap year adventure, working for a medical charity in Nepal. When a local girl begs him to investigate why her friend Kami never came back from Everest, Ryan cannot resist the challenge.

A solo journey takes Ryan deep into the mountains where his detective work finally pays off.
